

It is the sweetest thing you'll ever taste, but without your tongue,
It will fill your ears with the most beautiful melodies, but it has no sound, Its sight is worth more than the most incredible painting, but it cannot be seen with the eyes, It is the simplest thing but too complex for the mind to comprehend, It comes with tingling sensations but it is intangible,
Your heart, your mind, your soul, they all recognise its presence, Sometimes it is the only thing you're missing and it is the only thing you always need It is forged in heaven and bestowed upon man as a blessing,
I know,
When I catch her amazing scent, or hear that divine laugh,
Or when we hold each other and are at peace,
When I calm her fears and give her joy,
Or when she kisses my scar and we tickle each other,
I have love and I am grateful.